EMERGING ORDER

Fall Evaluation Worksheet

Please attach this worksheet to the draft of your self-evaluation, and turn it in with your portfolio Week 10. Use another sheet of paper for additional space if needed.

Name: Fall Seminar Leader:

1. What is the work in this program that you did of which you are most proud? Why?

2. Did you read all the program books this quarter? Which ones did you work the hardest on? Which ones do you feel you may have slighted? Which ones do you think will have the most long lasting impact on you? Why?

3. How do you feel about your reading skills?

4. What did you learn about writing? What kinds of writing are you able to do? What problems do you have with writing? What do you want to work on next?

5. Describe your contributions to your peer review group, and the feedback you received from them.

6. What did you learn about participating in seminar over the quarter? Are there skills you've developed to get the most out of seminar? What have you learned about prepare yourself for it? Do you contribute more often and more constructively now than at the beginning of the program? The most significant experience I had in seminar was when …

7. What is the most significant thing you learned about yourself and your work through the Math workshops, assignments and lectures? If you found this work challenging, what did you do to get past those challenges?

8. What is the most significant thing you learned about yourself and your work through the Art & Animation workshops, assignments and lectures? If you found this work challenging, what did you do to get past those challenges?

9. Many of the assignments given this quarter asked you to work in groups. What skills, if any, do you feel you developed that will help you in future situations that require collaboration?

10. Look back over your lecture, film and workshop notes and seminar papers and notes. What are some of the major themes that caught your attention? Have they influenced your ideas about cosmology or your thinking in any other way? How might you explore these themes further?

11. This quarter we have been examining the idea of order in nature, and how artists and scientists explore it and express it. What were your ideas about this subject week 1? How have they changed over the past 10 weeks?

12. If you could do this quarter all over again, assuming you would still sign up for Emerging Order, what would you do differently? E.g., study and work habits, focus, relationships with other students, skill development, etc. What have you learned about yourself that you will be mindful of next quarter or in your future studies?

13. How have your views of education changed (or have they?) since you entered the program?

14. What are your goals now? What do you plan to do next quarter? Next year? When you graduate?