

You are writing a short essay.

You won't have room to summarize and create lengthy introductions. You've got to get sharply to the point and give clear, textual support for your ideas.

Consider your audience to be a group of people doing academic work who have read and thought about these same texts.

Essay 2:

A Rigorous Cloud Atlas Geometry

a minimum of 750 words in the essay proper

1.5 line spacing
see program syllabus for more guidelines

Due Friday, week 3, by 4:00 pm in your seminar faculty's mailbox.

If you cannot get to campus on fridays, talk with your seminar leader about an alternate plan

TOPIC

Craft a thesis about Cloud Atlas that allows you to analyze the novel's structure using insights from Turchi's chapter, "A Rigorous Geometry."

Your paper must use direct and substantive textual evidence from both texts. Your paper must not be a rehashing of themes or plot points from the novel.

Instead, focus on how technical aspects of what Mitchell has done with the constraints of his chosen structure contribute to the workings of the novel.

Place your full thesis statement as the title of your essay.
